Controlled Natural Weathering

Our manufacturing process uses a variety of quality materials from known reliable sources. The result is a WPC/PVC decking product which is more consistent, more natural looking and higher quality than normal composites.

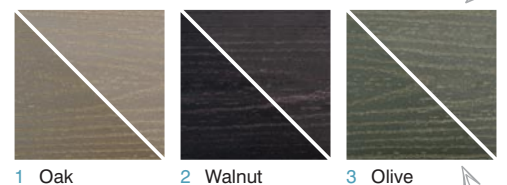

Fitrite EVOLUTION boards contain natural wood fibres in its composition within the outer skin. Many types of hardwoods have a natural evolving process which can be effected by various conditions. Due to this wood content, controlled natural colour evolution will occur.

By developing a WPC & PVC mix in the correct ratios we are able to control this natural process.

- 6 week evolution cycle
- Controlled natural weathering
- Stabilizes to its naturally enhanced colour
